NAHB has developed a four-hour seminar for builders, trade contractors, supervisors and workers. This training program focuses on identifying fall hazards in residential construction and providing student attendees an understanding of the OSHA fall protection regulations and safe work practices to prevent fall-related injuries and deaths.

The seminar will teach you how to:

- Recognize the most common fall hazards on residential job sites
- Use safe work practices to reduce the risk of injuries
- Comply with OSHA fall protection regulations that apply to the home building industry

Each participant will receive:

- NAHB-OSHA Scaffold Safety Handbook
- Other valuable safety and health materials
- New Resource Guide for Fall Protection Training Program
